145 years of passion for plants has meant that for Guillot-Bourne delivering the right tree at the right place is a permanent target and 2014 has been a successful year with some magnificent private and public European projects.

On one hand Guillot-Bourne has provided specimen trees planted in modern pots or specimen coniferous or standard trees for outstanding city projects.

On the other hand they have completed some conscientious planting in some of the nicest private gardens in France and Switzerland.

In our nurseries specimen-trees are always selected by the customer themselves. The hand-digging guarantees a perfect root-ball and best growing opportunities for the biggest specimen trees. They also carefully load the trees onto special trucks which is very important for an optimal delivery to the construction site. Guillot-Bourne know how much quality matters to their customers, and take extra care to ensure the best quality every time. To assist the planting further and the final lifting, they can offer their customers the opportunity to work with some of their best technicians, which are sent to the construction site to assist with the actual planting itself.

Their technicians will help with all aspects of the planting with one common goal, the satisfaction of the customer. Come and talk to them on their stand at LANDSCAPE this September in Battersea Park.
